WOW! And they say the federal government is slow to respond...

Thanks Karen.

Thanks Karen, that's great. I'm glad our agencies are providing different angles (regulatory-public health) on this chemical. Ohio is definitely involved when we have over 64 thousand people taking part in a C8 study..
Take care,
Greg

Hello Ms. Johnson:
My name is Greg Stein and I work for the Ohio Department of Health, Bureau of Environmental Health, Health Assessment Section and I am the contact person for our program's chemical fact sheet and public health information. The reason I write today is to let you know that your Fact Sheet: EPA, DuPont Agree on Measures to Protect Drinking Water Near the DuPont Washington Works http://www.epa.gov/region03/enforcement/dupont\_factsheet.html has two broken links to ODH's HAS web site where folks can get general health information regarding the C8. I found these broken links because I am in the process of updating our ODH C8 fact sheets to reflect the semi-new information regarding the Science Panel Probable Links papers and the creation of a C8 Medical Panel to conduct the medical monitoring program.

You were listed as the contact person for this fact sheet, so I am forwarding this to you for your consideration for correction. The correct hyperlink to our C8 information is:

http://www.odh.ohio.gov/odhprograms/eh/hlth\_as/FactSheets.aspx

Thank you Karen,

Greg
